

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MMSA Opens Call for Speakers for 2026 Technical Conference at Tile Solutions Plus in Miami

Miami Florida The Materials and Methods Standards Association MMSA has officially opened a call for speakers for the 2026 MMSA Technical Conference to be held in conjunction with Tile Solutions Plus from November 1–3 2026 in Miami Florida.

Following the strong engagement and momentum generated by the inaugural event MMSA is expanding its technical programming to further support alignment across materials methods and performance expectations in the tile and stone installation industry.

The MMSA Technical Conference is designed as a collaborative forum where industry professionals can share data driven insights practical knowledge and emerging concepts. Unlike traditional conferences this event is structured to bridge the gap between technical development and field application.

This event is not limited to scientists or laboratory professionals. MMSA is actively encouraging participation from installers contractors manufacturers and tile producers to present on real world applications jobsite experience and practical knowledge that drives results in the field.

“There is an incredible depth of knowledge across this industry from lab work to jobsite execution. Bringing those perspectives together in one place is essential if we want to continue advancing standards improving performance and ultimately pushing the industry forward ” said Dale Kempster President of MMSA.

MMSA is seeking presenters across a wide range of subject areas including:

- Technical developments in materials and systems
- Sustainability initiatives and environmental considerations
- Installation methods and field best practices
- Testing methodologies and performance validation
- Emerging technologies impacting the industry

Presentations must be educational and technical in nature. Submissions that function primarily as product promotions or direct sales pitches will not be considered.

The conference will include technical presentations committee collaboration sessions and open discussions focused on solving real challenges and improving industry consistency.

Industry professionals interested in presenting are encouraged to submit a topic and brief synopsis.

Kind Regards,

WAW

William A. White

William Alan White CTI, CFI, ICRI
North American Technical Manager
ARDEX Tile&Stone
C: +1 503.704.1582
www.ardexamericas.com

Building tomorrow

